Highways to Greater Challenges . . .

The direction of every individual depends greatly upon his high school experiences. As the time approaches for many of us to leave these familiar halls and enter a more modern building, let us look back to that crisp November day in 1926 when Brookville's doors were opened for the first time.

Brookville was formed by the consolidation of Cox's School on Timberlake Road and Central Point School on Leesville Road. That first year, the new 5 room school operated under the leadership of only 6 faculty members. It offered elementary subjects to an enrollment of 125 students. Due to a demand for higher education, a high school curriculum was added the following year. The first graduating class consisted of 3 members.

Now, forty years later, we definitely can feel the effect of growth and advancement. Presently Brookville registers over 960 students with 47 faculty members. This year's senior class boasts of 130 prospective graduates.

Down through the years, Brookville High School has furnished us with the opportunity to develop leadership, character, and sportsmanship. Under her able guidance we have gained firmness of purpose and appreciation of scholarship. It is only through diligent service and constant effort on our part, that BHS can continue to provide these cherished treasures and fulfill the goals of its founders. In remembering the old and looking FORWARD to the new, we present to you the 1966 BUZZER.

Going from the Old to the New,

"Down how many roads among the stars must man propel himself in search of the final secret? The journey is difficult, immense, at times impossible, yet that will not deter some of us from attempting it. We cannot know all that has happened in the past, or the reason for all of these events, anymore than we can with surety discern what lies ahead. We have joined the caravan, you might say, at a certain point; we will travel as far as we can . . ."

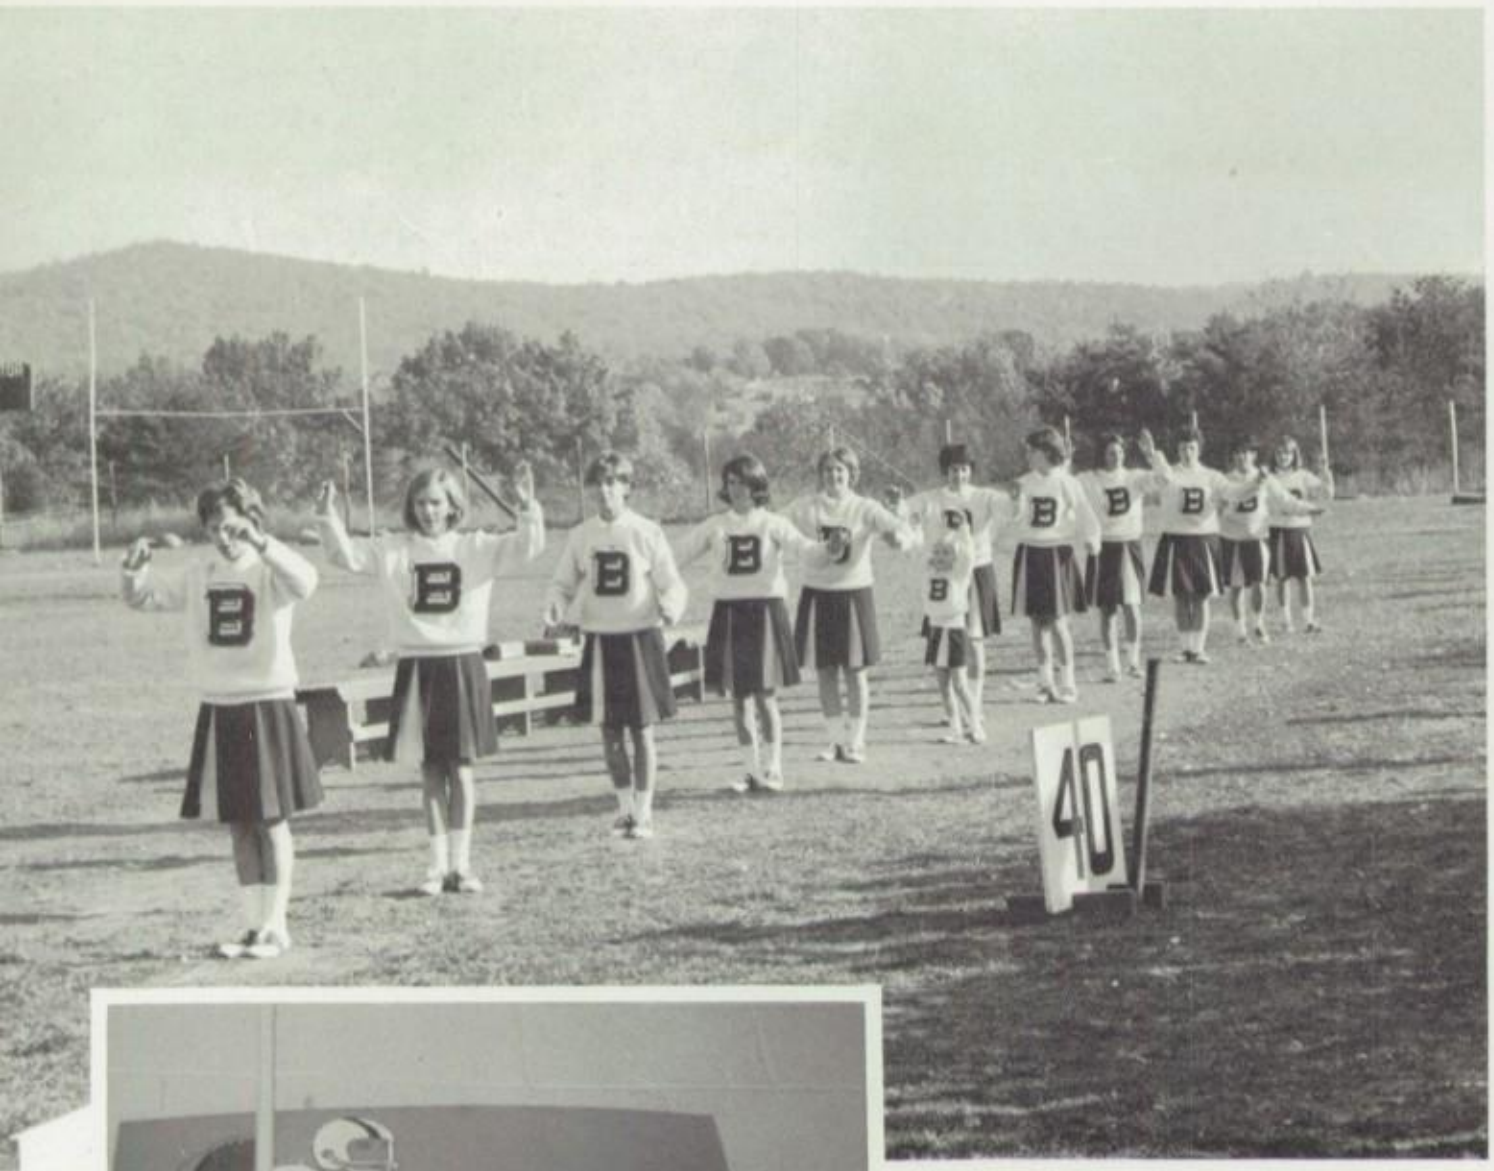
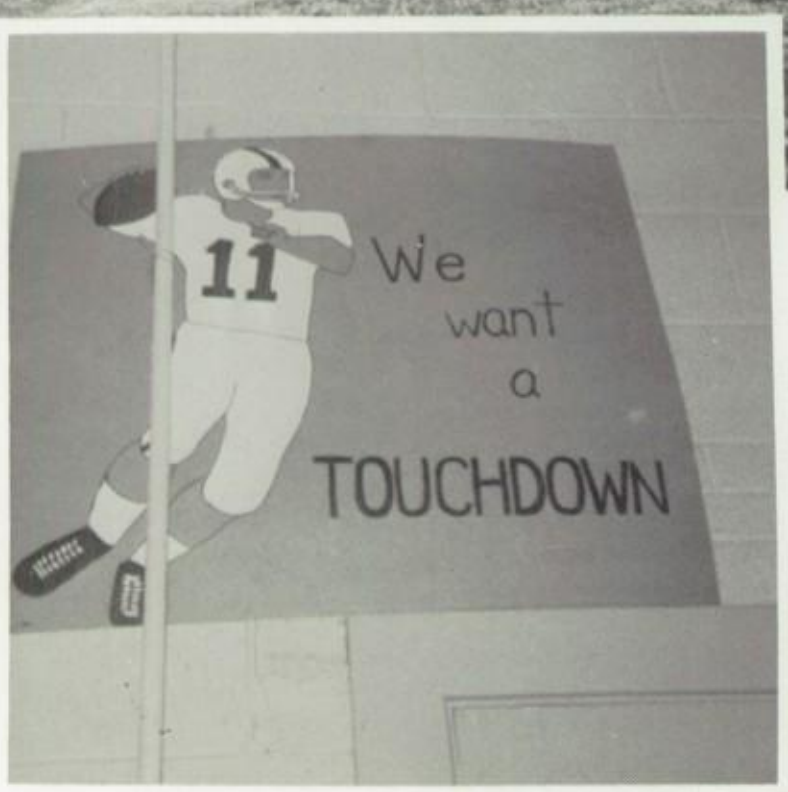
Girls elected by the faculty to attend Girls' State were Billie Carter Tinsley, Pam Kavanaugh, Susan Goff and Carroll Bryant.

Boys attending Boys' State from Brookville were Ned Haley, Bryan Mitchell, J. C. Hanks, John Hicks and Steve Bryant.



Cheerleaders begin their regular Friday afternoon pep rally with a victory cheer.

Lasting Impressions



A football poster, composed by the Pep Club, displays the common cry of the students, "We want a touchdown."

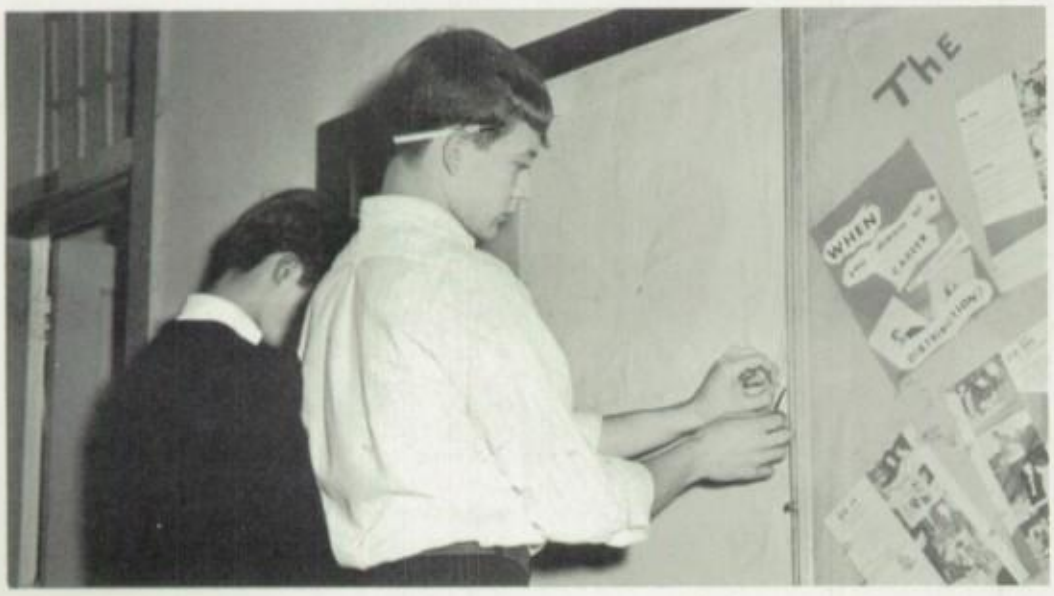
Students who willingly give their study period time to help in the office are L. Duncan, A. Rice, L. Fine, C. Marks, L. Crist, K. Johnson, J. Woolridge, D. Carroll, S. Angel, M. E. Golf, M. Newsome, S. Harris, R. Bell, J. Layne, P. Cox, and L. Porter.



Cris Dalton and Larry Foster clear the bulletin board in the main hall for Distributive Education display.

Darlene Crouse appears sure that her name will be the "lucky one" to be drawn for the transitor radio.

David De Lancy makes change for Barbara Hamlett for milk purchases during lunch time.

Volunteer cafeteria workers Douglas Kersey, Reinhard Hindenlang, Billy Kersey, and Steve Stallard prepare for the "mad rush."

Members of the 1965-66 Homecoming Court were P. McCarthy, P. Garbee, J. Neal, B. Evans, R. Thompson, B. Spencer, W. Crist, G. Newman, M. Moore and L. Ripley.

Social Poise Exemplifies Our Student Elite

Each year the senior class elects a boy and girl as Senior King and Queen and a representative court is chosen by the underclassmen. This couple and their court exemplify those qualities and expectations of the students who elect them. The honor of being chosen to represent these ideals are bestowed upon a choice few, the elite.

"King Oogie" takes "a time out" from his royal activities for a snooze on the gym floor.

Martha McCraw, senior, was chosen "Junior Miss" in the Lynchburg Pageant sponsored by the J. C.'s.

The honors won by Brookville students are by no means only those conferred upon them by faculty and students. This year four girls represented our school in the "Junior Miss" Pageant, and the title "Junior Miss" was won by Martha McCraw.

Marshall Anderson, custodian, has faithfully served Brookville for many years.

Members of the Girls All Star Intramural Basketball Team were Kathy Hurst, Shirley Cecil, Carolyn Martin, Claudia Marks, and Charlotte Wills.

Today's Qualities Produce Tomorrow's Citizens

Students leave sixth period class to attend pep rally on the athletic field.

Home Economic students, Margo Capps and Kathi Kidd, try a recipe for Christmas Candy.

David Rutledge returns a lost book to the book room.

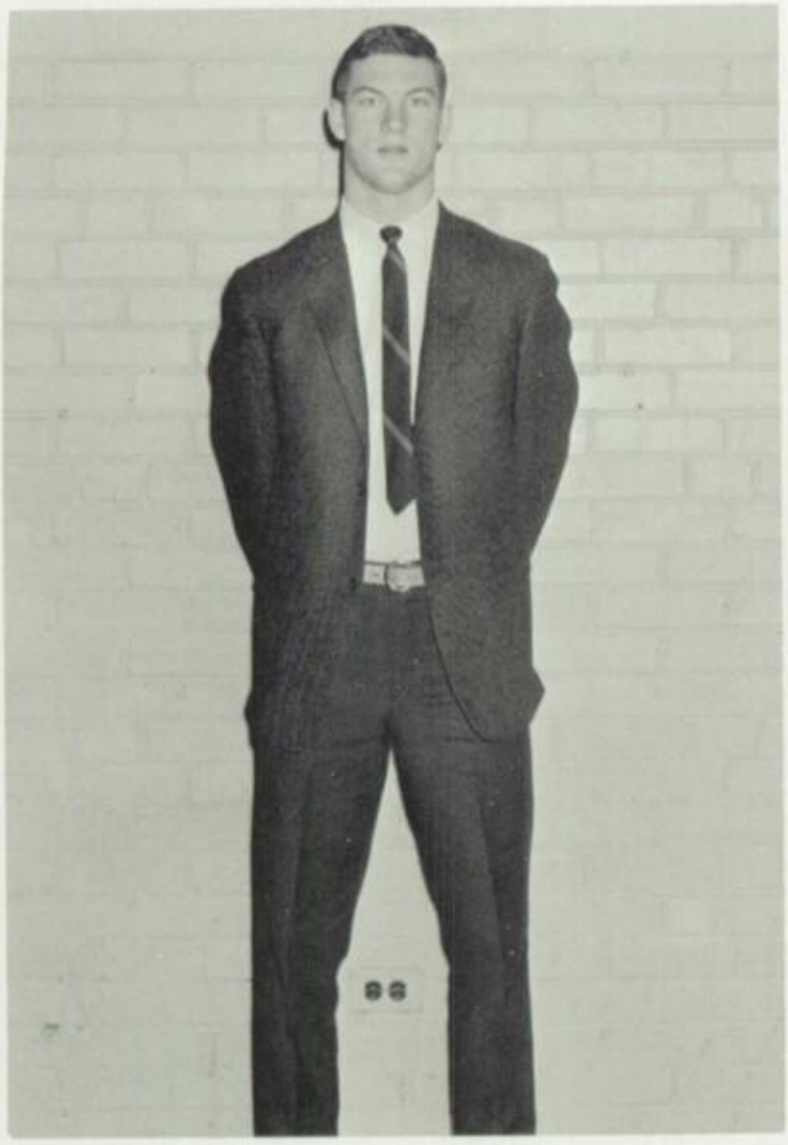
Students diligently attack their studies during one of the study halls held in the school cafeteria.

Students Receive Awards for Outstanding Performances

Each year students are recognized by the faculty, students, and areas outside of the school for outstanding services, accomplishments and excellency in various phases of school life.

At the end of the football season, team awards were made and the All-District team was selected. J. C. Hanks, Bobby Lockridge and Steve Bryant were the recipients of the school football awards. Bobby and Steve won berths on the All-District Team. Steve was also selected on the All-District Basketball Team.

Billie Carter Tinsley was voted to receive the D.A.R. citizenship award. Jean Holms took first place in the American Legion Public Speaking Contest. Sherry Shaffer received the highest 4-point average among those selected to the National Honor Society.

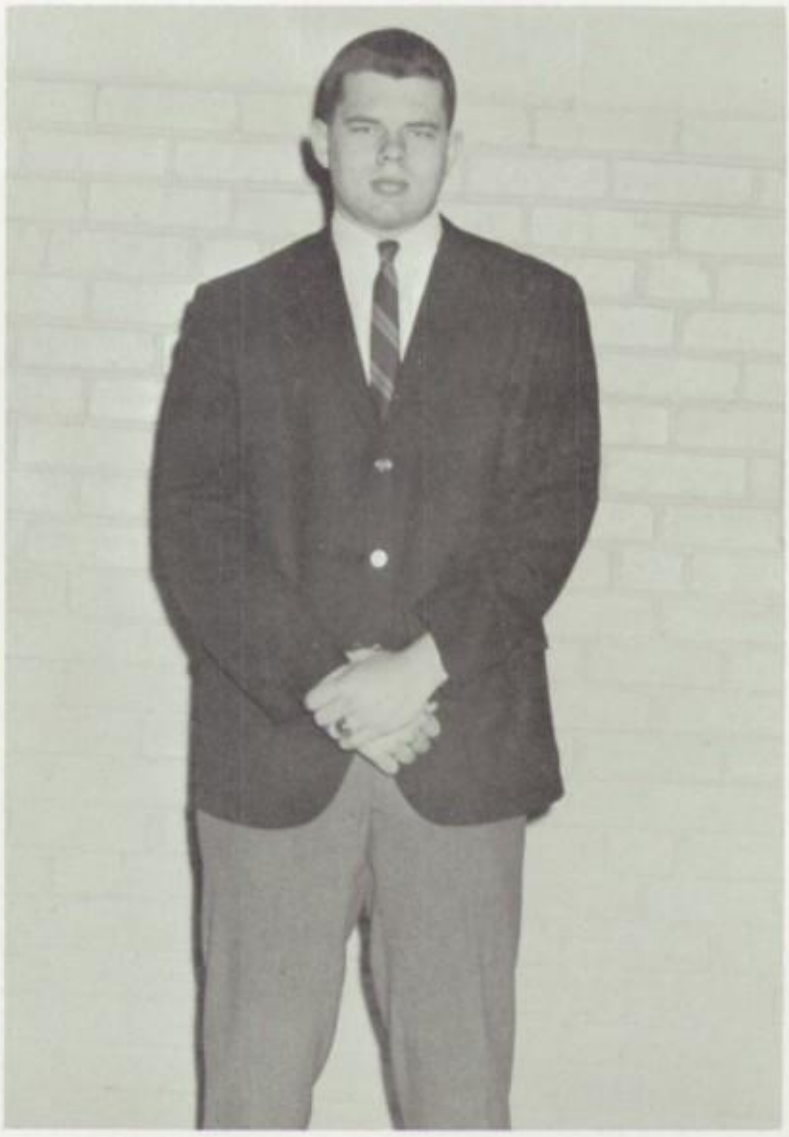


A Good Sport . . . J. C. Hanks was the recipient of the annual Sportsmanship award at the football banquet.

All District Selections . . . Bobby Lockridge and Steve Bryant were selected to represent Brookville on the All District Team.

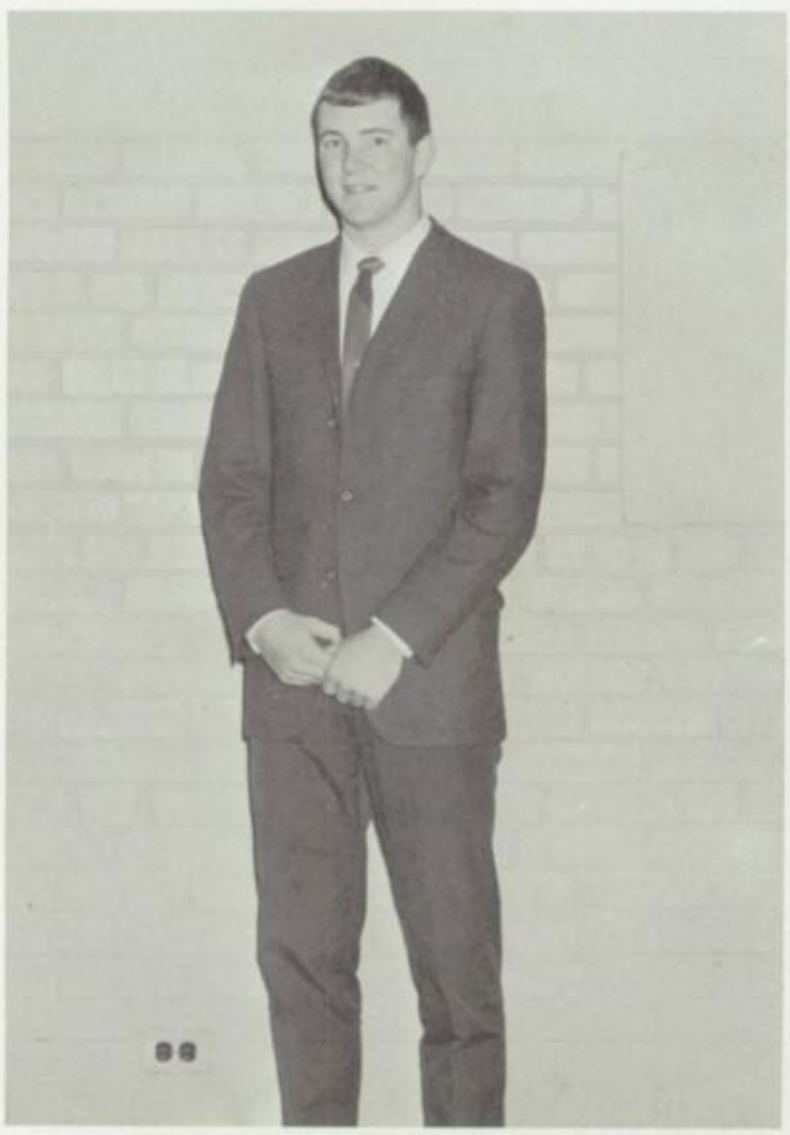
Outstanding Citizen . . . Billie Carter Tinsley was chosen by the faculty and Senior class to receive the D.A.R. good citizenship award.

An Excellent Speaker . . . Jean Holmes was the first place winner in the American Legion Public Speaking Contest.



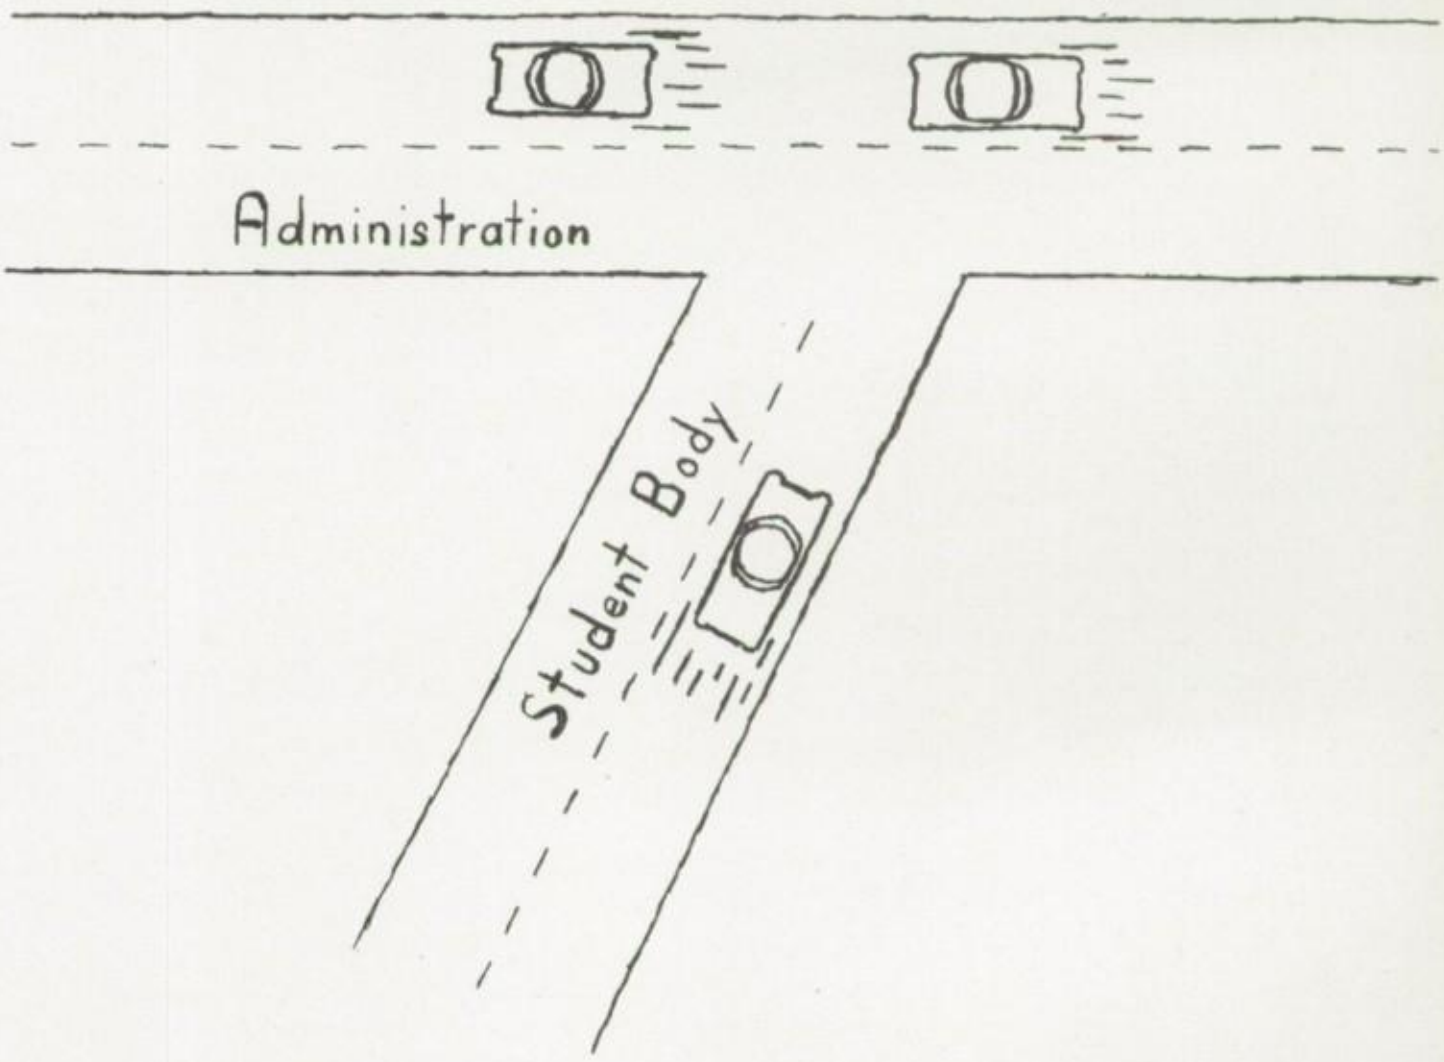
Best Lineman . . . Bobby Lockridge was voted by his teammates as the best lineman of the year.

Highest Four-Point Average . . . Sherry Shaffer was rated highest among National Honor students in character, leadership, service and scholarship.



Back of the Year . . . Steve Bryant was named best back by members of the football team.

ADMINISTRATION



The student body yielded the right of way to the guidance and the knowledge of the '65-66 administration and thus was rewarded with an education and its valuable benefits.

Mr. Urquhart, what was so amusing in the bulletin?

Mr. W. David Urquhart, the principal of Brookville High School for the past five years has attained an outstanding record as an administrator and educator. During his principalship the enrollment of Brookville has greatly increased, the curriculum has been expanded, and faculties improved.

His schedule has been especially over-crowded this year due to the fact that he has been making preparations for moving into the new building next year. However, he is never too busy to be a friend and advisor to the students. His enthusiasm is not limited to the academic field alone, for he also is an ardent supporter of athletic and extra curricula programs.

Mr. Urquhart Endeavors to Make B.H.S. the Best

W. David Urquhart
B.S., M.Ed.
University of Richmond, University of Virginia;
Principal.

Mr. Urquhart and Mr. Garbee hold one of the many conferences that are necessary between a principal and his assistant.

The telephone proves to be an invaluable asset to Mr. Urquhart in transacting school business.

Mr. Wright types one of the many letters he writes each year in aiding seniors to become enrolled in college.

Mr. Wright, assistant principal and senior guidance counselor, devoted much of his time to helping seniors make their decisions concerning college and careers. Many students were enabled to further their education due to his expert counseling about available scholarships.

Diligent and hard-working, Mr. Wright was always ready to help a student with any problem and his advice and consideration were always appreciated.

Assistant Principals Provide Vital Aid

Lynchburg College,
University of Virginia;
Assistant Principal,

Herman B. Garbee
B.A., Lynchburg
College; Dean of Students, Biology.

Mr. Garbee issues absentee slip to sophomore, Judy Wooldridge.

Mr. Garbee, Dean of Students and assistant to the principal, carried the burden of the diciplinary problems at Brookville. In two years time he has won the respect and admiration of the students for his "firm hand" and fairness in dealing with his "charges."

Mr. Garbee checks the daily absentee list for prospective truant offenders.

Guidance Counselors Co-ordinate and Direct Activities

Mrs. Bersch discusses scheduling problem with eighth grader, Nancy Doss.

Mattie W. Bersch

University of Virginia;
Guidance Director.

Mr. Wright, Mrs. Moore, and Mrs. Bersch confer over problems pertinent to the guidance department.

Mrs. Moore shows pleasure derived from counseling session with sophomore, Jean Holmes.

One of the busiest departments in the school was the Guidance Department. With the rapid growth in enrollment, the work of the department was greatly increased.

Although the department consisted of only one full time Guidance Director, Mrs. Bersch, and two part-time counselors, Mrs. Moore and Mr. Wright, it constantly directed students in the right direction. They assisted students in deciding which courses were necessary to prepare them for the future.

Shirley Dufort always wears a smile, in spite of the numerous tasks she is called upon to perform as Educational Secretary.

Educational Secretaries Aid Entire School

Brookville High School required the services of two full-time secretaries in 1965-1966. Mrs. Dufort handled all finincial receipts, bookkeeping work and banking.

Mrs. Purvis was secretary to all in the office who needed her assistance and took care of all school correspondence.

Lynda M. Purvis
Educational Secretary.

Lynda Purvis serves in the capacity of secretary to Mr. Urquhart, Principal, and Mr. Garbee, Dean.

Through the English Language, Our

Mrs. Gorman prepares to distribute test papers belonging to her junior English class.

What is the English Language? It is Latin and Greek and Anglo-Saxon, flavored with bits of Arabian or Mexican or American Indian.

What is English Literature? It is a Roman dictator or a Scottish king or a Norwegian warrior.

The heritage of the ages is bequeathed to us in a fascinating language which is capable of expressing action and ideas clearly and vividly. The aim of the English department is to encourage students to appreciate their language, to understand it and to use it well.

Edna Agnes Taylor
B.S., Longwood College; English, World Geography.

Bernice H. Hoilman
B.S., Madison College; English.

Mrs. Hoilman's class prepares to write a review of the story "The Man Without a Country."

We would like to know what Miss Taylor has found to be so amusing.

Ann C. Gorman
B.A., Lynchburg College; English, World History.

Elizabeth Kulman Moffitt
M.Ed., University of Virginia; English.

Mr. Moldenhauer plays and whistles an Elizabethan song in English Literature class.

Mrs. Jordan instructs English class on fundamentals of sentence structure.

Mr. Moldenhauer inspects oddities collected by his students which are used to provoke thought in creative writing class.

Through Scientific Observation, Doors

Kenneth C. Canody
B.S., Lynchburg College; Science, English.

Ashby L. Milstead, Jr.
B.S., Lynchburg College; Science.

John William Cocke
B.A., Virginia Military Institute; Physics, Chemistry, Science.

Pauline N. Moore
A.B., Meredith College, University of Virginia, R.M.W.C., Lynchburg College; Chemistry.

The science department offered all four categories of science — Earth Science, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics.

The students, who traveled the road of Earth Science, learned more about the true nature of the universe and the Solar system of which they are a part. From a knowledge of the Earth's structure and its changes, the atmosphere and the forces of weather, oceans and their mysteries came to be theirs. They were forced on toward a knowledge and exploration of space.

Students of Biology sought out the answers to the questions about what life really is. They studied the history of life, the inter-relationships of living things, and the continuity of life.

Mr. Cocke exhibits an expression of humor in his first period physics class.

Mrs. Moore explains atomic structure of chemical elements to her second period chemistry class.

Are Opened to the Unknown World

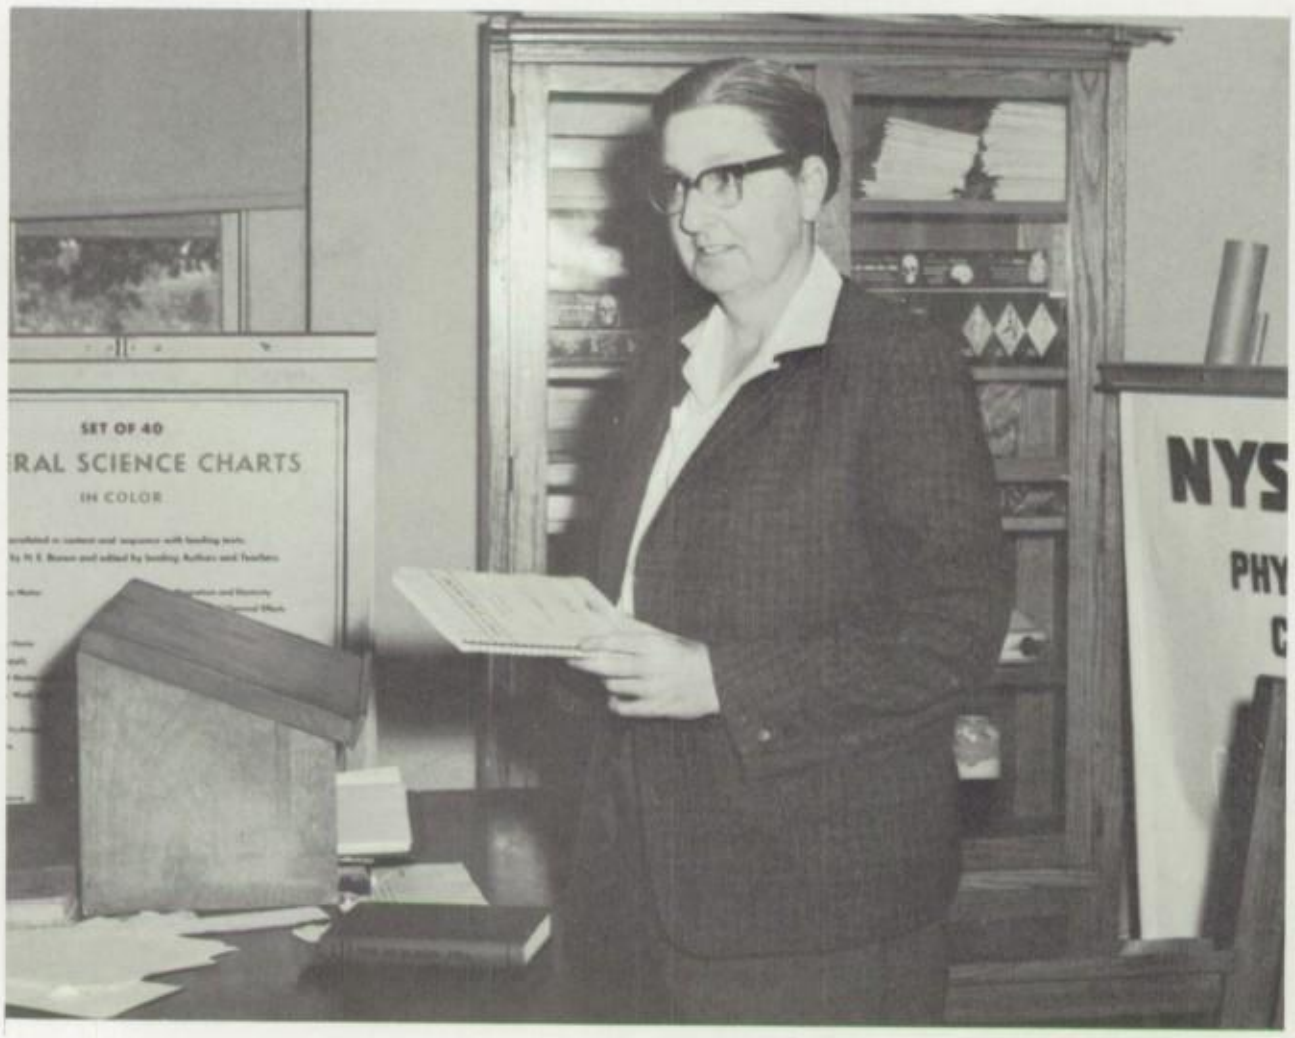
Could Mr. McBride be explaining the function of a pencil?

Kenneth P. McBride
A.B., Mercer University; Biology.

Jean M. Daniel
B.A., M.Ed., Lynchburg College, University of Virginia; Science.

Through observation, and experimentation, chemistry students sought out the truth about matter, its changes and hopes, for a better way of life.

Those who elected Physics followed a road to a study of the energies. They learned the nature of energy, the ways it involved sources of energy and our hopes of developing means to meet the demands of an energy-hungry civilization. The behavior of light, sound, electricity, electronics, and nucleonics will engage these students along life's pathway.



Miss Daniel threatens mischievous eight graders with her expression and grade book.

Power of Reasoning is Developed

Mrs. Beamer stresses the importance of ratios to her eighth grade math class.

Bettie F. Beamer
B.S., Radford College; Mathematics.

Margaret S. Farrar
B.S., Madison College, Lynchburg College, R.M.W.C.; Mathematics.

The Math department was organized to give the students a more realistic outlook in the world of numbers. It was divided into three main divisions: Introductory Mathematics, which includes Math 8 and Math 9; Algebra I and Alegbra II; and Higher Mathematics, which consisted of Geometry and Advanced Math. Each section endeavored to incorporate the new trend of "Modern Math" into its curriculum. The concept of set theory was introduced and carried throughout each course.

The math courses equipped the students with a means for making a place for themselves in the adult world and a sound foundation for further achievement in college work.

Mr. Horner commences to prove two triangles congruent during a Geometry session.

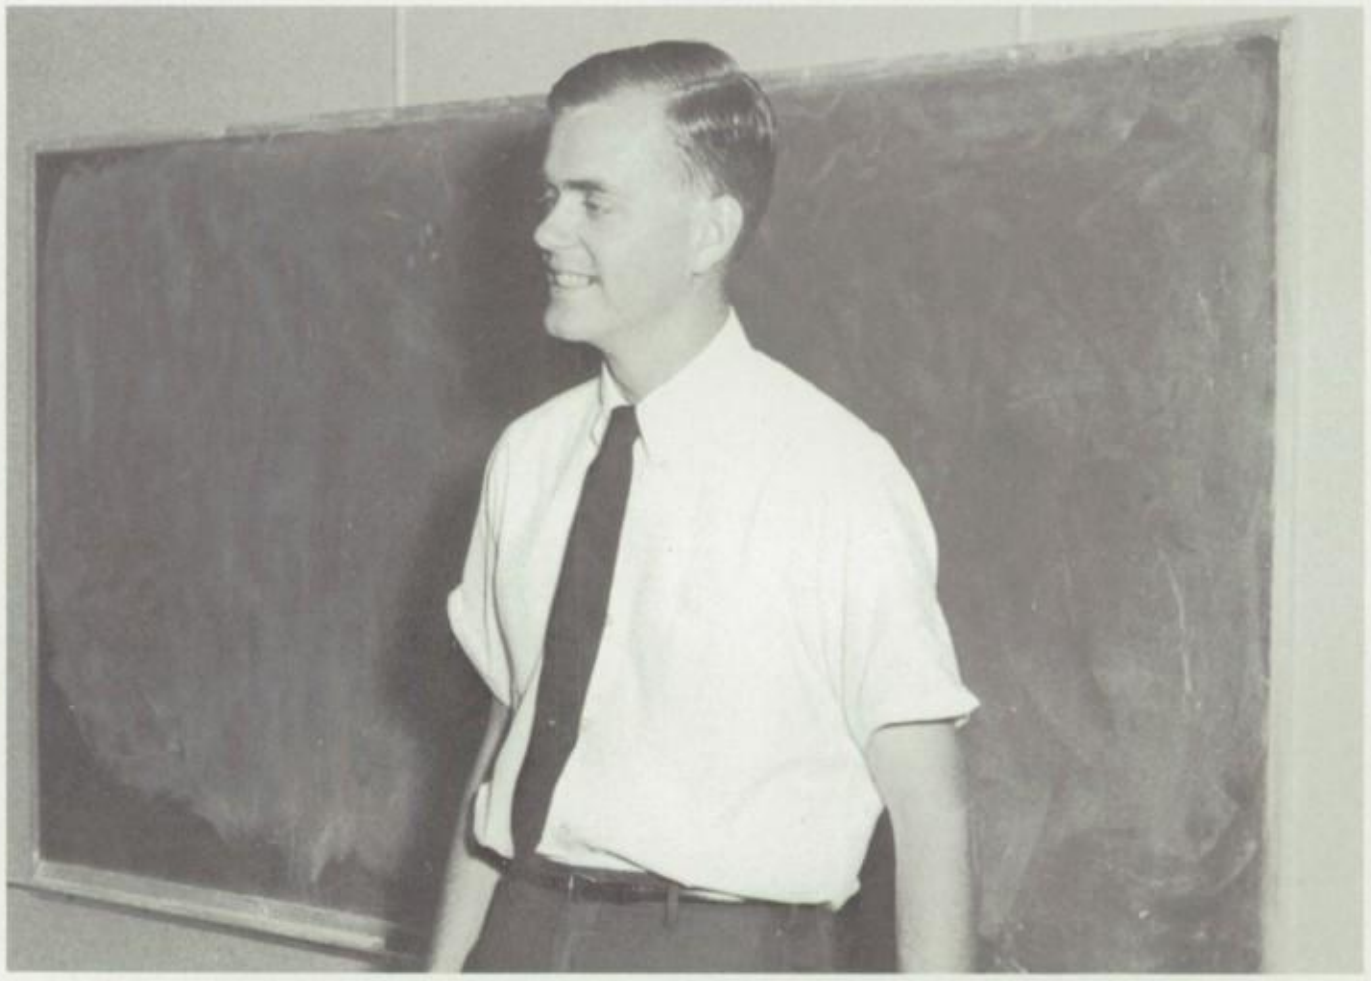
Richard S. Horner, Jr.
B.S., Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Lynchburg College; Geometry, Advanced Math.

Clifford Lamont Thomas
B.S., Hampden-Sydney; Algebra, Math.

Through Modern Mathematical Concepts

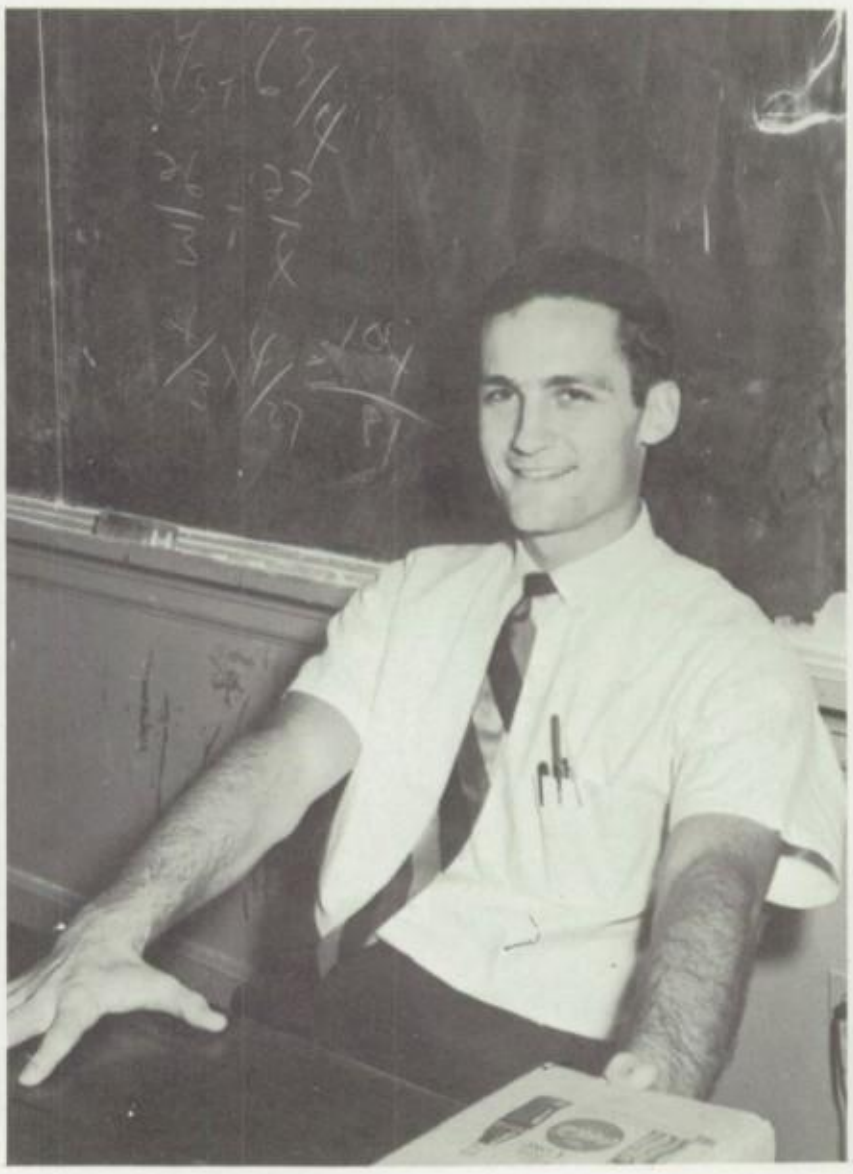
Russell L. Watson
B.S., Lynchburg College; Algebra, Math.

Rebecca J. Reasor
B.A., William & Mary; Algebra, Math.



Mr. Watson gets set to re-explain difficult word problem for final test review in Algebra class.

Miss Reasor reveals an appearance of relief after recording Algebra I quiz grades.



Mr. Thomas displays an expression of satisfaction as he closes his book at the end of General Math class.

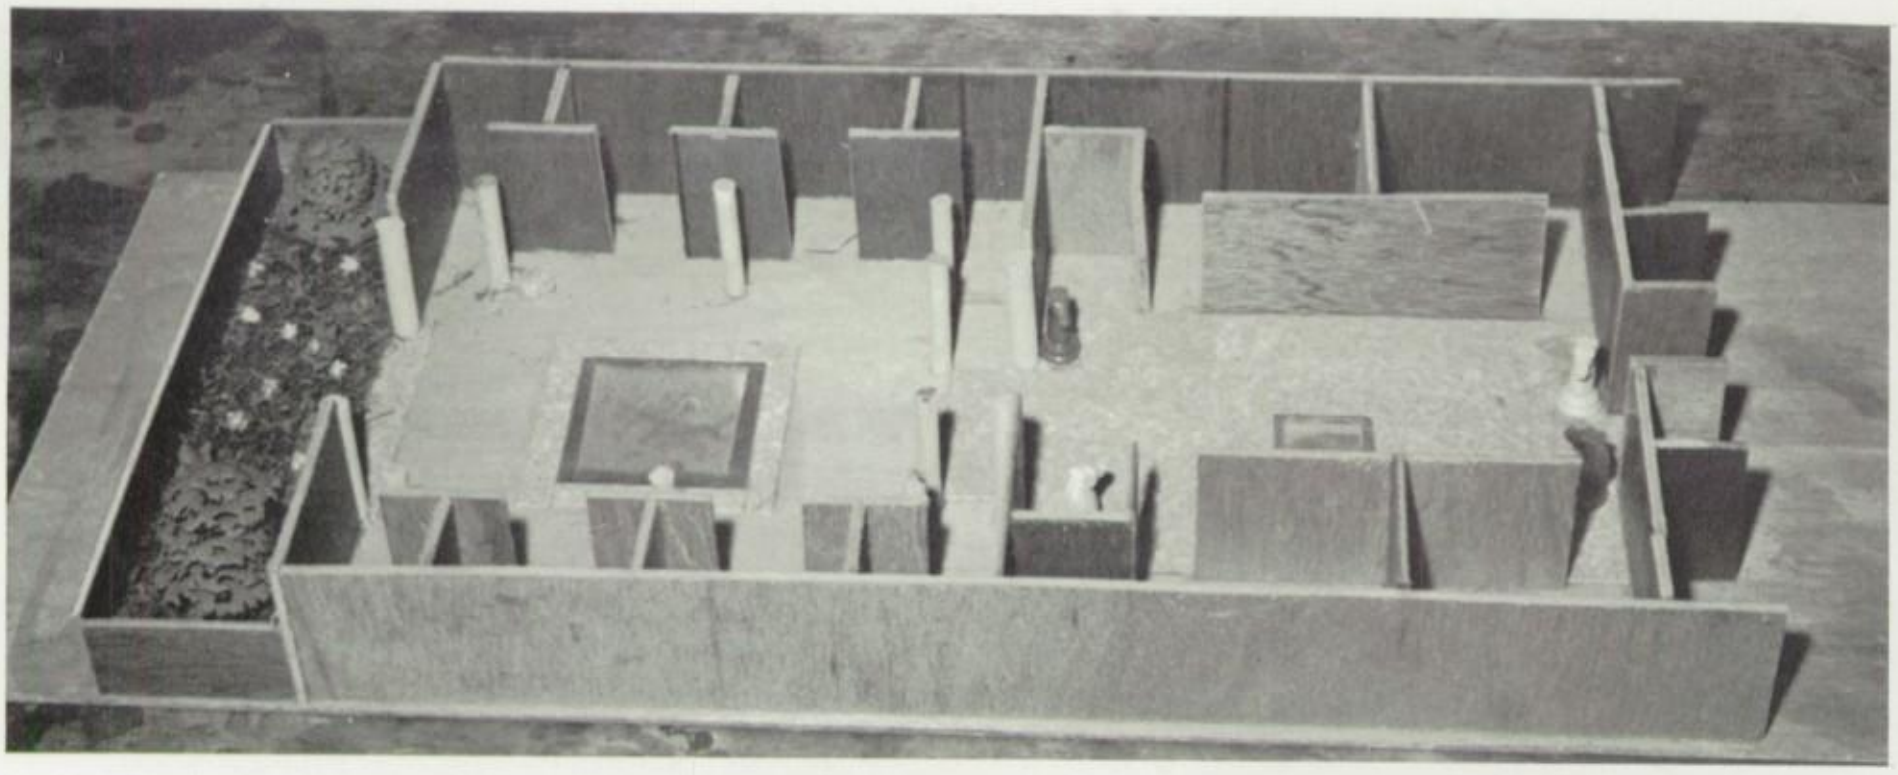
Francis Hill Quigley
A.B., Lynchburg College; Government.

Billy A. Fenimore
A.B., Randolph-Macon Woman's College; History, English.

Mrs. Fenimore discusses the American Revolution with her 8th Grade History class.

Mrs Wood reviews her U. S. History Class for the upcoming mid-term exams.



A Roman house, designed by Doug Mitchell, makes past history come alive.

Stressed in Preparation for the Future

During 4th Period U. S. History class, Mrs. Shoemaker gives background information on sectionalism.

History courses at Brookville provided a varied and comprehensive program as well as an appreciation for our heritage. Government, which is a must for Seniors, gave them an insight as to how our government works, a comparison with other governments, and taught them their rights as an individual and their responsibilities as citizens. American history, a required course for Juniors, gave a detailed review of our nation's story. World History, an excellent background course for any student, was a survey of civilization from ancient times to the present, and Geography taught how man had adjusted to his environment. Eighth grade social studies stressed good citizenship.

Mary Lee Wood
A.B., Flora MacDonald College, Mary Washington College, Lynchburg College; History, English, Latin.

John R. Swisher
B.A., Hampden-Sydney College; History.

Francis T. Shoemaker
B.A., Central Wesleyan College; U. S. History, World History.

Languages Broaden Cultural Backgrounds

Our foreign language instructors were dedicated to the task of establishing a class relationship between American students and people of other nationalities through the study of languages.

The three languages that were taught were Latin, Spanish, and French. Through the study of languages, the students not only learned to speak that language but learned to understand the people and their culture. The importance of Latin in everyday life was particularly stressed.

By using the bulletin board, Mrs. Hughes proves that Latin lives today in our every day vocabulary.

Ella B. Hughes
B.A., Sweet Briar College; Latin.

Diana U. Smack
B.A., Longwood College; Spanish.

Mr. Mason accentuates the importance of correct pronunciation to his French class.

Carroll W. Mason
B.A., Fulbright Scholarship, Lynchburg College, Middlebury College, The Sorbonne, Paris, Institute of Phonetics, Paris; French, English.

Mrs. Smack points out to her students the Latin American Countries in which the Spanish language is prevalent.

Business Students Practice Efficiency

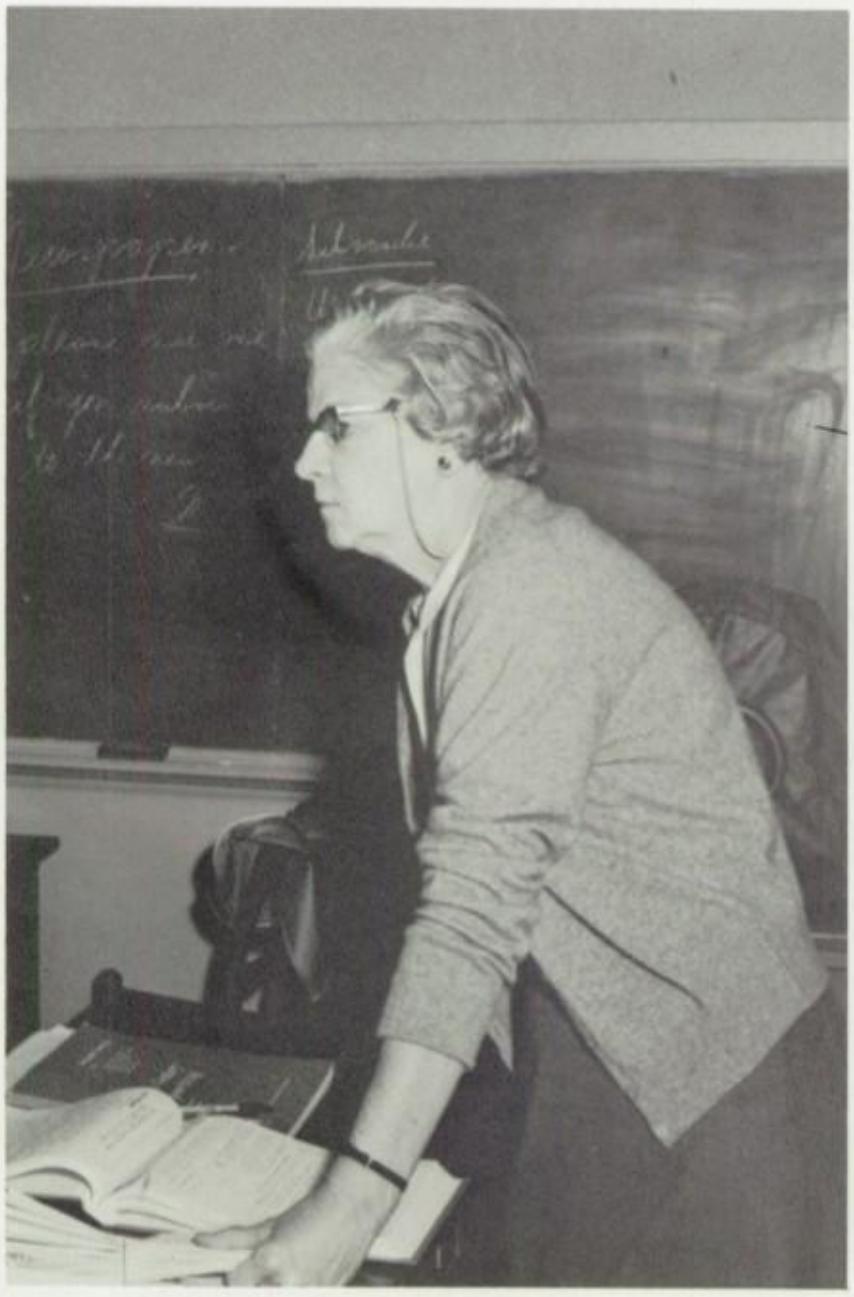
Mrs. Beverly watches over typing class as students practice time writing.

Elizabeth H. Beverly
B.S., Radford College; Typing, General Business.

Margaret R. McKenry
B.S., Mary Washington College; Shorthand, Typing.

Rita E. Hutcherson
B.S., Radford College; Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping.

From the business department came well-trained personnel who will be capable of contributing their knowledge to industry and the professions. They were expertly trained in all phases of office routine. Through the basic skill subjects of shorthand and typewriting, the students had an opportunity to determine the skills that they were interested in the most. By combining skill and theory with the technical subjects, the students acquired a knowledge of procedure and a sense of pride in accurate work. By encouraging original thinking, skillful planning toward definite goals, the students were aided in building toward an orderly life.



Mrs. McKenry listens closely to questions regarding the correct style to be used in a business letter.

After checking the absentee list, Mrs. Hutcherson prepares to lecture students on the basic skills of business.

F.H.A. Develops Natural Abilities

Miss Pratt demonstrates the proper threading of a machine to beginning Home Economics students.

Mrs. Morey points out to Linda Fine and Betty Gaddy directions in cook book on how to bake a cake.

Patricia J. Pratt
B.S., Radford College; Home Economics, World Geography.

Sarah L. Morey
A.B., La Grange College, V.P.I.; Home Economics.

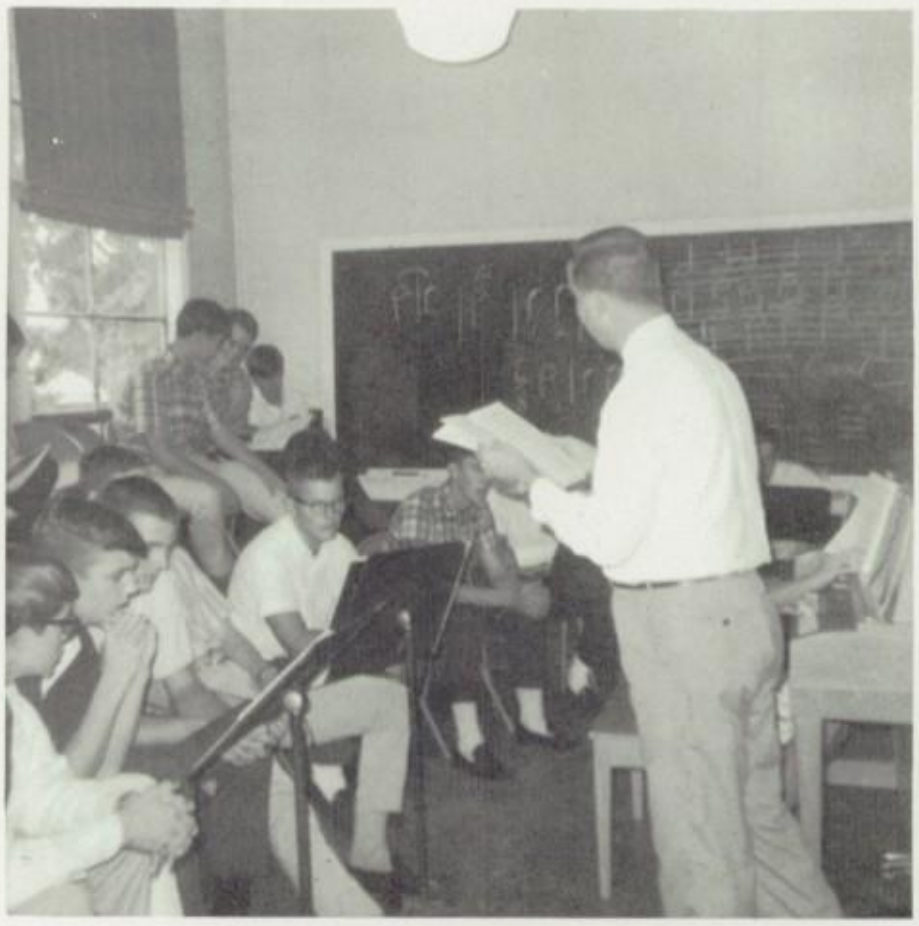
Under the able guidance of Mrs. Morey and Miss Pratt, the Home Economics department tended to teach girls to work independently toward the solution of personal and family problems, and to instruct them in modern living patterns of today and tomorrow, in home planning and decoration, in child growth and development, in clothes designing, and in meal planning and nutrition. Not only did these girls learn to sew, cook, and keep a balanced budget, they also learned the management of time, energy, and money as well as techniques of housekeeping.

Mrs. Morey displays new Coffee Maker recently acquired by Home Economics Department.

Music Enhances Student Talent

Kelly A. Shoemaker
B.S., Concord College; Band, Chorus.

The music department under the supervision of Mr. Kelly Shoemaker, consisted of the band, the chorus, and the majorettes. The chorus and band were a part of the regular school curriculum. The majorettes, who are considered a part of the band, practiced on their own time after school.



Chorus rehearses several songs in preparation for the Thanksgiving Assembly.

Mr. Shoemaker directs choral number, "No Man is an Island."

Students can receive only two credits in music toward graduation, usually a half a credit per year. Even though little credit is received, the majority of these students take musical classes all the way through high school.

The large size of the chorus made it necessary to split it into two classes. Conflicting schedules were the primary reason for two band classes. Although both groups were divided, they functioned as one group in their performances.

The musical program offered students a chance to develop their talents, to learn more of the finer qualities of music, to gain a wide knowledge of the various types of music and to encourage the talented in furthering their musical abilities.

Physical Education Provides Recreation, Health,

Mrs. Weigand, girl's physical education instructor, ponders over question asked in health class.

Sandra P. Weigand
B.S., Longwood College; Physical Education.

H. Wayne Holt
B.S., Lynchburg College; Physical Education.

The Physical Education department worked hard to keep students physically fit, mentally alert, and socially acceptable. Through active participation in varities of exercises and games, students were developed physically. From these sports students learned the value of sportmanship and good conduct.

The activities for the boys included team sports of football, basketball, and baseball. The activities for the girls in developing muscular skills included basketball, volleyball, softball, battleball, and tumbling. In addition, health classes for the eighth and tenth graders broadened their knowledge of diseases, mental illnesses, and the operations of the human body, while the ninth graders were instructed in first aid and driver's education.

Mr. Stinespring, who doubles as J. V. coach, physical education and World History teacher, reads the daily bulletin to second period class.

Vocational Training Extends Practical Skills

The I. C. T. and D. E. program instructed the students how to work with the public in the business world. The Industrial Arts program taught the boys to create articles of usefulness and beauty. They learned to make blue prints, to draw to a scale and to construct from their own designs.

Mr. Harris beams at the opportunity to close his office for the day.

Mr. Cauley reminds his shop students that this is a vice.

Library Serves the Entire School

Beulah C. Hubbard
A.B., William and Mary; Librarian.

The library was too small for the enrollment but under the efficient direction of Mrs. Hubbard, librarian, and her staff of student helpers, one hardly noticed this handicap.

The student helpers did a magnificent job mending books, replacing books upon shelves, and performing other essential tasks.

Carla Wilkinson, senior, checks out library book from Mrs. Hubbard.

Faculty and Students

Saddened by His Death

In memory of William Edward Leftwich, a member of the faculty, we dedicate this page.

Sometimes a person very dear to us is even dearer to God. So it was with Mr. Leftwich. His gentlemanly manner, patience with students, influence upon faculty, knowledge, devotion to family and church were outstanding examples of a magnificent character.

As his family loved him, so did we, and all who knew him were richer from this experience.

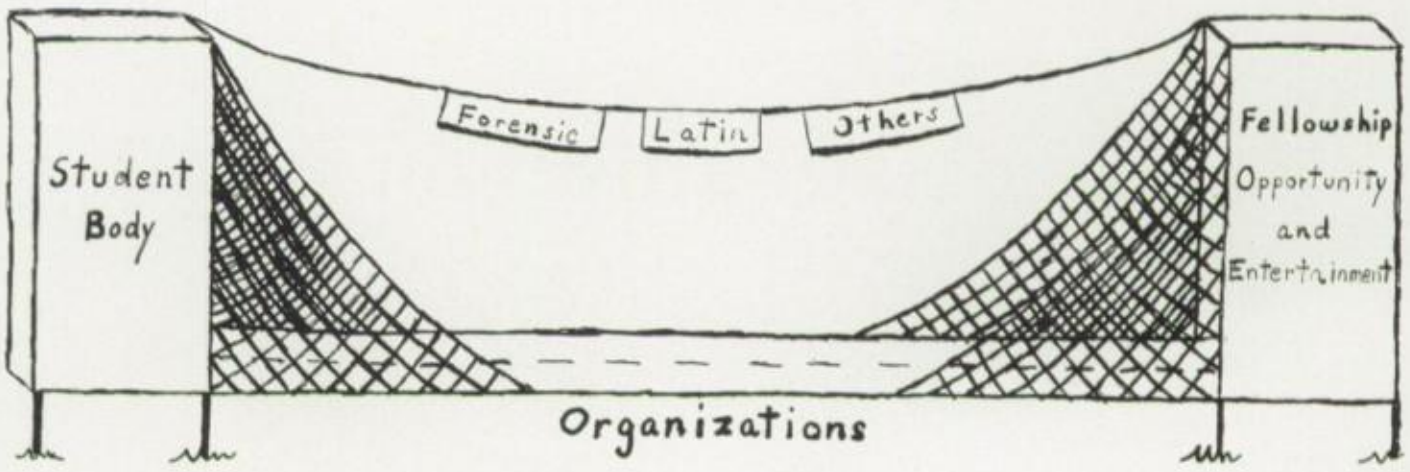
ORGANIZATIONS



The system of organizations and clubs at Brookville greatly resemble a bridge in the way that it related to the student body the tremendous benefits that one can obtain from fellowship, participation, and entertainment.

Glenn Clingempeel and Susan Arthur work on dummy.

The Buzzer staff worked many long, tiring and tedious hours to perform the numerous tasks involved in publishing a yearbook. Headed by Carol Bryant, editor-in-chief, the annual staff met daily during the regular annual period, and remained many afternoons working diligently on layouts, composing copy and headlines, identifying pictures, selling ads, arranging sections, and striving to finish the allotted number of pages before deadlines.

Annual Staff Strives for Bigger and Better

Carroll Bryant, editor, and Mrs. Quigley check yearbooks in search of new ideas.

Sandra Holland relaxes before beginning an overtime session of work on the yearbook.

The yearbook staff has earnestly endeavored to make this year's book superior to all others. Two goals were set for the year—to make this book through pictures and copy a true recording of the events and activities of 1965-66 and increase the size of the book to keep pace with the growth of other phases of school life. Without the help of Mrs. Frances Quigley and Mr. Richard Horner, this would not have been possible.

Darlene Crouse and Sandra Holland prepare copy for annual.

Publication with Complete Coverage

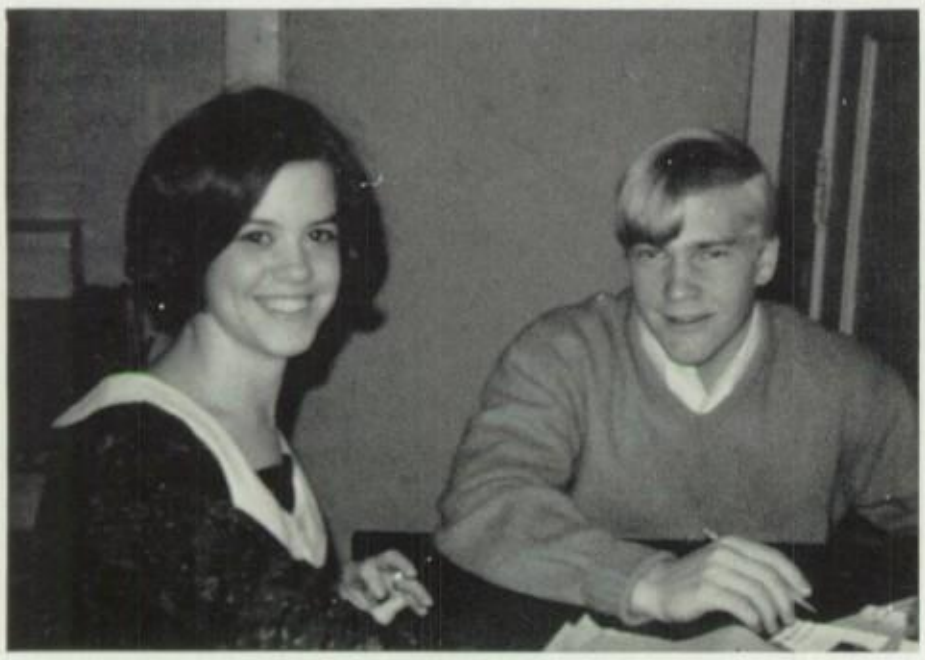
Mallory Haley and Steve Hall draw up senior layout pages.

Mr. Horner, financial advisor, and Carolyn Stinnett, business manager, go over yearbook budget.

Henry Bibb, photographer, catches reporter Joe Kesterson, typist Becky Jo Yeatts and Brad Sandrock photographer, at work.

F. Eastman, W. Dolan, D. Inge, and Mrs. Shoemaker draw up dummy page for Bee Line.

Bee Line Provides Complete News Coverage



Bob Sydnor and Susan Goff read over a finished edition of the Bee Line.

The Bee Line Staff under the new sponsorship of Mrs. Shoemaker and edited by Bob Sydnor was published six times during the school year. The newspaper staff was greatly aided in their work by the fact they were given a period a day for their work. All students who desired to contribute to the paper were given the privilege of doing so. This year the student body showed more interest in the school paper than in any previous year.

S.C.A. Fosters Improvements and Progress

Mr. Wright, S.C.A. Sponsor, receives first copy of student handbook from President Ned Haley and Martha Marks, Typist for handbook.

The Student Co-operative Association, sponsored by Mr. Wright, was created for the students of B.H.S. in order to promote a better understanding among the faculty, administration, and the student body.

Each homeroom elected representatives to the S.C.A., who attended meetings and discussed various aspects of student life and reported back to the homeroom.

The S.C.A. sponsored "The Beehive", a student handbook, which was distributed to each member of the student body. Other activities undertaken were the publication of the honor roll every six weeks, lunch room monitors, several assemblies and PTA membership drive.

The Pep Club began the year with ambitious plans for 1965-66. In October the club sponsored the Homecoming Dance. It was responsible for the spectator buses to all away games, and the decoration of goal posts. They also, created signs and emblems which promoted school spirit and sportsmanship.

Pep Club members, B. C. Tinsley, Caroll Bryant, Martha Newsome, and Frances Walker decorate goal post before Homecoming game with Tunstall.

Grace Miear, Billie Carter Tinsley, Connie Sligh and Sandra Holland hold one of the many posters displayed throughout the school by the Pep Club.

Honor Council Officers: Susan Goff, Secretary; Mr. Horner, Sponsor; Steve Bryant, Vice-President; Billie Carter Tinsley, President.

A most important role was played by the Honor Council in the makeup of the school. The Honor Council started its year's work by holding an assembly at which candidates presented their campaign speeches. The president of the Lynchburg College Honor Council spoke to the students on the function of an Honor Council and its assets to a student body.

After the election was held, such projects as placing the new honor code in every room; honor quotes in every edition of the school newspaper and displaying posters in prominent places throughout the school were carried out. During the year, the Honor Council, consisting of those elected to office, those who were candidates, two members each from the Senior and Junior Classes; one member each from the sophomore, freshman and eighth grade classes, encouraged students to refrain from any undesirable practices such as cheating, stealing and lying. When occasions arose, students were referred to guidance directors for private counciling and outstanding results were immediately evident in the school life.

High Ideals of Honor Are Set

Billie Carter Tinsley, Susan Goff, Jean Holmes and Debby Cox work on the constitution for newly organized Honor Council.

Chuck Ricketts, J. C. Hanks, Carroll Bryant and Ned Haley design poster to be displayed as part of Honor Council's effort to promote honesty.

Red Cross Club Receives Recognition

Linda Bishop and Mrs. Hughes receive plaque from Admiral Pollard for service to Naval personnel.

Admiral Pollard holds gift received from Brookville Red Cross as Mrs. Hinchcliffe, Director of Lynchburg Area Chapters, looks on.

Mr. Huckle, Christina Glover, Linda Bishop, and Mrs. Hughes proceed to load box containing three hundred sewing kits on plane bound for Viet Nam.

The Red Cross Club of 1965-66, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Hughes and guidance of Linda Bishop, was very active this year.

The club was awarded a plaque by the Navy for their gift of handmade sewing kits, which were sent to Viet Nam for the United States Navy. They gave two parties for the patients at Guggenheimer Hospital, one at Christmas and one at Easter. Movies on Red Cross aid in Viet Nam and on art work produced by Red Cross members across the nation were shown to the club.

Booklets were made for the child patients at Virginia Baptist Hospital, Lynchburg General Hospital, and the Lynchburg Training School and Hospital, containing brightly colored, entertaining pictures. In April the Red Cross Chapter's Open House was held. A bloodmobile, sponsored by the Brookville Red Cross, was held in May at Brookville Elementary School.

Many of the club members were volunteer workers at Virginia Baptist Hospital, Lynchburg General Hospital, and Lynchburg Training School.

Ruth Bishop, a Roman slave, serves a group of patricians at the Roman Banquet.

The 1965-66 edition of the Latin Club carried out an active and educational program under the guidance of Mrs. Hughes. This program impressed upon its members the value and importance of Latin in our lives today.

The Latin Club worked diligently and faithfully in preparation for its big event of the year, the annual Roman Banquet. The second and third year members served as patricians, or the upper class, while the newcomers into the club acted as their slaves.

The Latin Club also purchased a Banner which it paid for out of its treasury. The Banner served as a symbol for the club and thus proved to be a valuable asset.

Latin Club Conducts Authentic Roman Banquet

Besides these larger projects, the Latin Club also sponsored successful Halloween and Christmas programs. These programs aroused interest and participation among the members.

This year's Latin Club remained a member of the Junior Classical League on both state and national levels. This membership gained recognition for the club and promoted a sense of pride among all of its members.

Spanish Club Studies Native Customs

Mrs. Smack sponsored the newly formed Spanish Club.

The members of the club ordered rings and pins, which had "Spanish Club" engraved on them in Spanish.

The Spanish Club elected its officers at one of its first meetings.

Only students who were taking Spanish or had taken it a previous year were eligible to join the club.

The Spanish Club extended the understanding of our fellow South American neighbors and their ways of living. The students also came to understand the Spanish language and how to speak it more fluently. Not only did the students learn the language and customs of the Spanish, but also, the Spanish students learned the capitals of South American countries and their locations.

One of the main highlights of the club was their Christmas party. At this meeting, pinatas made by the club members, were judged for originality and creativeness. Pinatas, which are large clay jars filled with candy and toys, are hung by Spanish people in their patios to be broken at Christmas time or at a birthday party. They are decorated with colorful tissue paper and are made in the forms of animals—burros, horses, pigs, and most of all "el tore"—the bull.

French Club Stimulates Interest in Modern Language

Mr. Mason and club members leaf through copies of French story books.

Mr. Mason, a newcomer at Brookville, sponsored the French Club throughout the 1965-66 season. The club started out the year by drawing up a new constitution. Students wore, for the first time, catchy French Club pins signifying their membership. The annual initiation of new members was held in December. At one of their night meetings, the club was entertained by a French speaker. They also joined the local organization of people interested in France, Alliance Francais.

The French Club's year was highlighted by three big social events. A Christmas party was held in December and a skating party during the second semester. The traditional banquet brought the club year to an end.

Forensics Develop Art of Speech and Debate

The Forensic Club, one of the oldest organizations in the school, sponsored spelling, debating, prose reading and public speaking contests throughout the year. They also entered Contestants in the Group II, District IV Forensic Tournament held in April. The winners in the District meet participated in the State Tournament held at the University of Virginia.

Jean Holmes, president of the club, placed first in the Lynchburg Area American Legion Public Speaking Contest held in December. Students genuinely interested in any of these Categories were eligible for membership in the club.

Social events included a banquet, Hootenanny, a bonfire, trip to the Peaks of Otter, and a cookout.

Club meets were held regularly the first Wednesday in each month with additional meetings being after school.

Chorus Participates in Local and State

The bass and tenor sections of the chorus practice singing in unison.

The Brookville High School chorus, under the direction of Mr. Shoemaker, was composed of 116 students — 50 seniors, 30 juniors, 20 sophomores, and the remaining freshmen and eighth graders.

The chorus, known as one of the better high school musical organizations in this area, has achievied honors in state musical festivals for the last five years.

Highlights of the year were the participation in the WLVA-TV Christmas Party, the Music Festival, and the Spring Concert. The chorus also sang at many of the school assemblies. Outside of school, the chorus was often called upon to sing at various churches and civic organizations. Throughout the year, chorus members found their class exciting, and challenging.

The Brookville "B", formed by the band and majorettes, was one of the many formations presented at half-time game activities.

Band and Majorettes Encourage School

The Brookville High School Band, organized six years ago by Mr. Kelly Shoemaker, has increased in membership each year. The band has finally reached good instrumentation through the aid of the Band Boosters and the community, who have purchased vital expensive instruments.

During the 1965-66 school year, the band participated in many public events. They promoted school spirit at the football games where they presented colorful formations at the half-time shows. Also, every game began with the band playing the "Victors March" and the "National Anthem." Other highlights of the year were the Christmas parade, the Dogwood Festival, the Christmas assembly at school, and several concerts held at different times throughout the year.

Butch McCarthy practices drum rolls for state contest in which he won first place.

Spirit at Games, Parades, and Concerts

Adding sparkle and zest to most of the band's performances were the majorettes. These girls, led by head majorette, Sandra Wheeling, and co-head, Kathy Creger, began in the summer to practice on new routines and formations. They also began early to raise money for new uniforms which were worn to the first football game of the season.

The majorettes were selected from a board on the basis of their twirling skill, character, scholastic ability, and appearance. For their hard work and fine performance they have gained recognition here at school and in competition.

Students compete in such categories as window displays, ad layouts, merchandise presentations, job interviews, and sale demonstrations. Toward the end of the school year, D. E. Industrial Cooperative Training is a form of cooperative part-time education, designed to provide vocational industrial training opportunities for high school juniors and seniors. It is a cooperative enterprise between business and industrial establishments furnishing part-time employment and training to students during school hours. Through this employment the students learn the manipulative part of their jobs under actual working conditions. At the same time the school furnishes the technical subject material related to the job being learned. The school also provides a qualified teacher-coordinator who directs the learning of the students in their study of related technical information and visits them periodically on the job. He works closely with the employer to insure proper relationship with the student and to correlate related study material with the operations the student learns on the job, as a student-learner employee.

The Library Club was an organization of students who desired to render a service. The recently organized Art Club encouraged interest in the field of art and its many facets, provided additional opportunities for creative expression to interested students, and served the faculty and students. The club contributed posters to the community and school for various activities.

Art Encourages Creative Expression

In September, Mr. Matthew Pickeral spoke on "Commercial Art" and its everyday uses. At the October meeting Mrs. Roy Quick demonstrated how to make a collage and exhibited some of her own work. In December the club held a Christmas party at which the new members were initated and their art was displayed for the old members to judge.

A regular function of the club was the upkeep of the bulletin board in the library on which the committee did an excellent job. Other activities included a collage exhibit in February and an-end-of-the-year b a n q u e t for the members and their guests.

History Club Organizes Under New Congressmen

The History Club was open for membership to any student who was taking or had taken United States History. The initial step of the club was to draw up a new Constitution and elect officers in the Senate and House of Representatives. To be eligible for one of these offices a student had to have at least a B average.

Local politicians served as guest speakers at club meetings and nearby historical places were visited. One of the various projects of the club was the sale of stationery with a picture of the new school. Through the history club, members extended their knowledge of the country and gained a better understanding of our past heritage.

Despite the small size of the team, injuries, and setbacks, the Bees fought hard with spirit throughout their ten game season. At times they showed great playing skill, especially against district champions, Amherst, whom they battled to a 12-12 tie. This put the only blemish on the Amherst record. The Bees were in excellent form against William Campbell, the last game of the season, but once more had to settle for a 20-20 tie, ending the season with a 4-4-2 record.

J.V.'s End Season with 5-2 Record

The J. V.'s expanded their 1965 season to seven games rather than the usual six.

The opening game was played against Amherst County, who defeated Brookville 12 to 0, handing the Brookville J. V's one of the two losses suffered during the season. Brookville overcame their next opponents, Appomattox, Altavista, Rustburg, Staunton River, and Liberty. Of these five games their closest call was with Appomattox, whom they edged out 14-13.

The second loss came in the final game which was a return game with Altavista who defeated them by a score of 12-2, proving the old saying "it's hard to defeat a team twice in the same season."

Bees Were Off to a Slow Start but Finished

Brookville fans were disappointed in the opening part of the season as the Bees did not show the potential that was expected of them. By mid season, however, the Bees were living up to expectations.

The season opened with Amherst and the Bees lost by the close margin of 58-56. This defeat was avenged in mid season by Brookville handing Amherst its first loss in twelve starts.

"Queen Bees" Capture Northern Division Title

Under the able coaching of Mrs. Sandra Weigand the girls basketball team showed enthusiasm and a desire to win. This spirit carried them through the regular season with only one defeat, losing to Nelson County.

In the district tournament the "Queen Bees" advanced to the finals losing to the "Gretna Hens."

Karl Koenig, catcher, goes through warm up practice.

Last year the Brookville baseball team won its first district championship and are hoping for a repeat this year.

Seven lettermen were lost through graduation with eight returning to the squad for the '66 season.

Nineteen games were scheduled; nine of these to be played on the home field with ten being played on our opponent's diamonds.

The opening game was played against E. C. Glass High, whom the Bees defeated twice during the 1965 season.

Infielders Don Elder, Marks Cannaday, Barry Rice, Roger Webber, and Francis Gigliotti line up for warm up practice.

Wayne Glass and Wayne McAlexander, pitchers, follow through during practice.

Donnie Stinnett, Kenneth Ferguson, Mike Hill and Rex Bumgarner boost team morale before opening game.

Intramural Athletic Program Is Expanded

Each year after the regular basketball season is completed an intramural tournament is held; thus giving everyone who loves the sport and desires to play, an opportunity to participate. An amazing amount of enthusiasm and spirit was shown for these contests. Our intramural program was broadened this year by adding wrestling and bowling.

Varsity Cheerleaders Inspire School Morale

During the 1965-66 season, the cheerleaders from B.H.S., under the supervision of Mrs. Wiegand, made invaluable contributions to the competitive aspect of our school. When their glowing personalities weren't leading our pep rallies, the cheerleaders increased school spirit, either by decorating the halls or creating devices that sparked enthusiasm in the hearts of their fellow classmates. Time and time again their vim and vigor urged the Bees to victory. The cheerleaders, truly, constituted the backbone of school spirit at B.H.S.

A second important contribution was made by our cheerleading squad when they came up with many new cheers and original routines. This contribution was not automatic, for the cheerleaders practiced many hours and spent a great deal of time learning the new cheers.

We salute our cheerleading squad not only for their new cheers, but also because they were the essence of school spirit at Brookville.

Pam Kavanaugh, Head-cheerleader

Pam has served B.H.S. as a cheerleader for four years, one on the J.V. squad as head-cheerleader and the other three years on the Varsity squad. During her senior year, Pam led the energetic Varsity squad as head-cheerleader.

J.V. Cheerleaders Urge "Baby Bees" to Victory

Betsy Haley, Head-cheerleader, illustrates the correct form for calling a cheer.

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders, always striving to cheer the J. V. Bees in victory or defeat, proved to be as spirited and capable as their "Big Sisters."

Under the supervision of Mrs. Davis, and the leadership of Betsy Haley, Head-cheerleader, the girls spent many hours practicing to develop skill and co-ordination with each cheer.

In addition to promoting school spirit with their enthusiasm, they attended all football and basketball games and set good examples of sportsmanship for the entire school.

The loyal support of these girls did not end with the final blow of the whistle, and the spirit exhibited by them was a great asset to the morale of the teams.

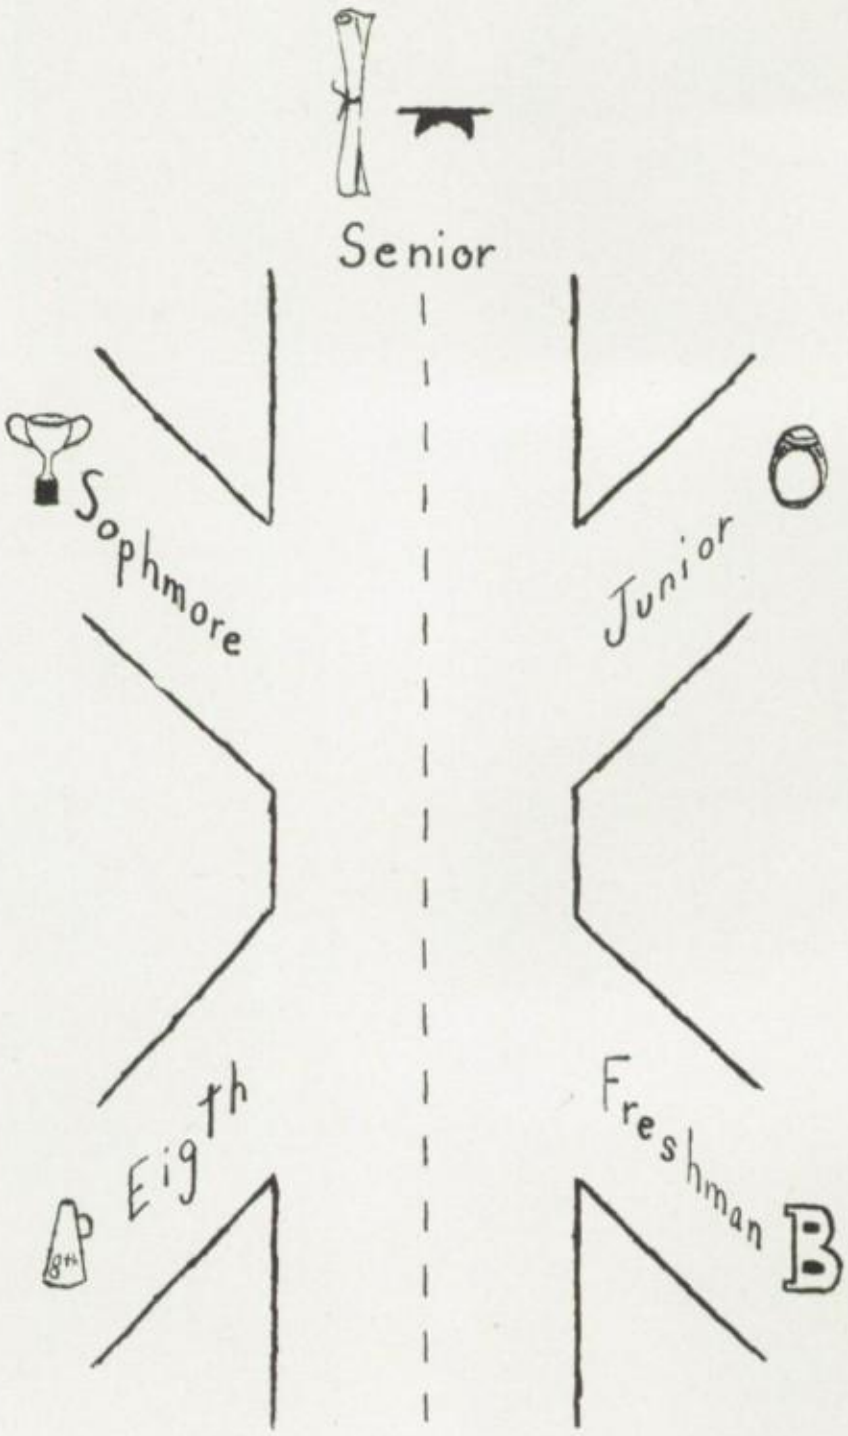
CLASSES



The road to success is often times a difficult one filled with many stumbling blocks. It, nevertheless, can be conquered by ambition and will power. The '65-'66 student body exhibited this type of willingness and desire.

Senior Class Officers: Steve Woodford, President; Rodney Colinger, Vice-President; Pam Kavanaugh, Secretary; Barry Pillow, Treasurer.

The Senior Class of 1965 is the last class to graduate from the old school. It is the largest class in the history of the school, numbering one hundred thirty-nine seniors.

Special privileges are awarded the Seniors. Among these are occupying the front seats in assemblies, a play presented by the Seniors, and a Senior Day, reigned over by a Senior King and Queen. The couple also reigns over the Homecoming football game and dance. One of the highlights of the graduation exercises is the Senior Chapel.

This class has proven that they are ready to face the challenges of college or career life.

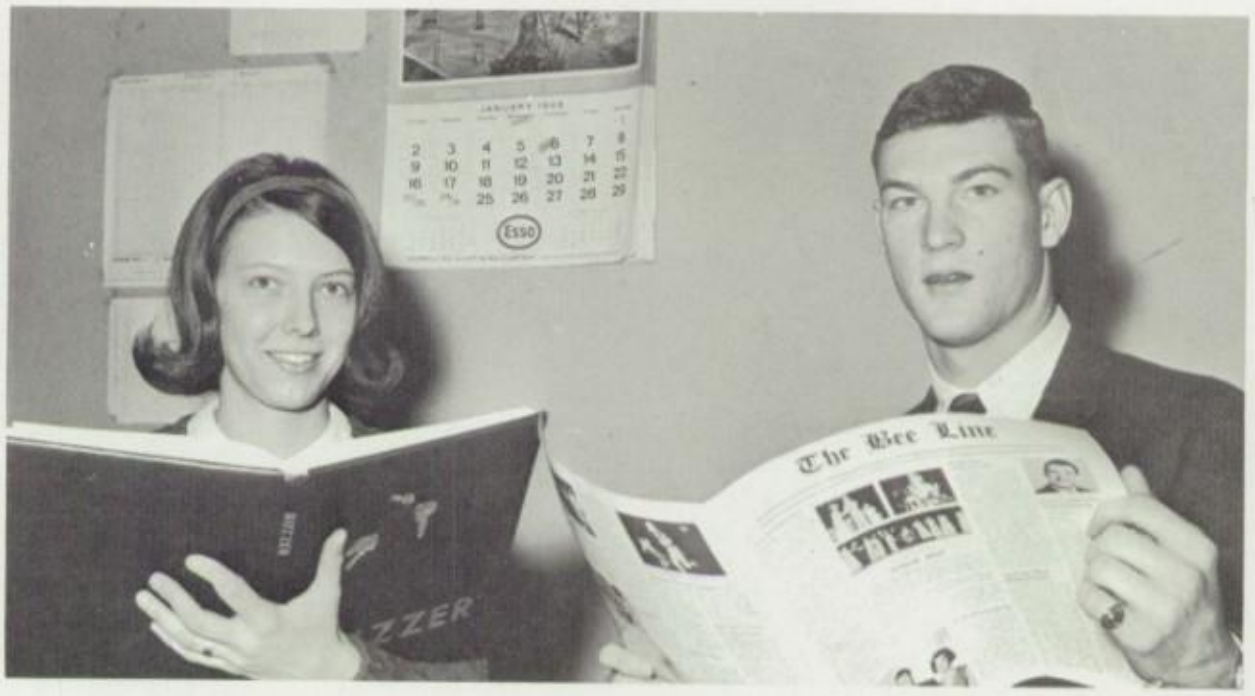
Many Seniors Are Honored for Excellence in Class of '66

The Who's Who pages project an image of a class whose ability and talents were exceptional. In appreciation for their varied contributions and services, we name them to Who's Who.

Good News . . . Betty Layne leaves the office reading the letter of Commendation received from the National Merit Examination.



Who Reads This Stuff? . . . Carroll Bryant, editor of the yearbook, and J. C. Hanks, feature editor for the Bee Line, say "We Do".

"I Hope I Can Qualify," . . . says Steve Woodford as he looks over the scholarships being offered to seniors.

Who Would Like To Pose For Me? . . . says Sherry Shaffer, who excelled in art, and dance. She also received the highest four points rating of the National Honor Society.

Pride is Shown in Both Work and Fun

Does Anyone Need Help? ... Pam Kavanaugh and Claudia Marks are always ready and willing to offer their services to teachers, students, organizations or wherever they can be used.

Are We Good? ... Barry Pillow and Patty Cox are willing to challenge anyone to an athletic contest.

What Office Shall I Run For Next? . . . Susan Goff, Representative to Girl's State; S.C.A. representative for two years; President of Latin Club, 1 year; and winner of Brotherhood award; excelled in the offices she held.

Who Says I'm Not School Spirited? . . . Billie Carter Tinsley places pep poster in gym. Billie Carter was a member of Pep Club for 4 years and played varsity basketball for 4 years.

Students' Activities Reflect Well-Rounded Characters

My Text For Today ... Bryan Mitchell, whose academic standing was among the top in the senior class, was often called upon to preside over assemblies because of his excellent speaking voice.

Look Us Over ... Billie Susan Spencer and Ricky Thompson were elected by the senior class to represent them as their Senior Day King and Queen.

Listen My Children . . . Ned Haley, President of S.C.A., had charge of many of the S.C.A. Assemblies. Ned was also an athlete, representative to Boys State and member of the Honor Committee.

Hey! Look At My 98 Average . . . Steve Bryant, valedictorian of the senior class, was a top athlete and an all around student.

Junior Class Officers: Glenn Clingempeel, Secretary; Gail Newman, President; Mark Dawson, Treasurer; Bobby Lockridge, Vice-President.

The election of class officers and selection of the Ring Dance Committee started the year off with great enthusiasm.

The Ring Dance which is the high light of junior activities, was financed by class dues and the girls donated the refreshments. The dance always takes place just before the Christmas Holidays, thus the appropriate theme "The Night Before Christmas" characterized the gala occasion.

Gail Newman and Warren Crist were given the honor of representing the juniors in the Homecoming Court.

As the year progressed, the class worked diligently toward academic achievement; preparing for preliminary college boards, National Merit and examinations.

The final social activity came in May when the juniors played host to the Seniors by entertaining with the "Prom".

Long-Awaited Rings Delight Juniors

Steve Hall receives his ring from Barbara Fox as the rest of Junior Class eagerly awaits their turn.

Brookville's gym was transformed into a Christmas paradise as the theme "Twas the Night Before Christmas" prevailed.

Dancers were enthralled by the lively renditions of the "Jivers".

Gail Newman, Junior Class President, has ring placed on finger by Warren Crist beneath cedar decked arch.

Responsible for the highly successful Ring Dance were: Gail Newman, Sonya French, Martha Cannaday, Jane Sanderson, Kathy Creger, Robin Bell, Frances Walker, Vivian Farthing, David Morey, Wayne Dolan, Glenn Clingempeel, Frank Eastman, Bobby Lockridge.

Led by Dee Lugar, Becky Evans, Mary Ellen Goff and Judi Wright, the sophomores found themselves classified as upper classmen for the first time. They experienced joy, sorrow, anticipation and indecision in the year of transition. Faced with the decisions of which courses to follow and whether to attend college, they were presented with problems which were perplexing as well as challenging.

Taking the usual sophomore classes of English, biology, social studies, math and physical education they worked closely with their guidance counselor, Mrs. Moore, to plan their future.

The sophomores contributed immensely to all phases of school life; exhibiting talent and a sense of responsibility by participating in the band, chorus, athletic program and receiving their share of the academic honors.

The Joyous Freshmen, the largest class in the school, with the exception of the eighth grade, started the year off with a bang. They were overwhelmed by the fact that the long awaited time had come when they were considered an integral part of the high school.

Our Freshmen pledged themselves to make the school proud of their achievements. By taking advantage of their every opportunity, they accepted the challenge of preparing for the future. Academically they could well be pleased with their large number who made the honor roll. Leisure time was spent in extra curricular activities and sports. The organizations which had been closed to them as eighth graders now welcomed their fresh new ideas, talents, and enthusiasm, which were stimulating to all.

The Freshmen found that teachers now put more trust in them and they were finally being considered on the road to adulthood.

Eighth Grade Class Officers: Parky McCarthy, President; Mike Dossett, Vice-President; Denny Moyers, Treasurer; Debbie Nichols, Secretary.

The change from grade school to high school is indeed a big one and the little eighth graders showed their bewilderment in the beginning of the school year. Everywhere the upper classmen looked they found new faces, schedule cards in hand, searching for classroom numbers, cafeteria, gymnasium, or fumbling with lockers. However, it didn't take long for the "scared faces" to disappear and soon they became professionals at "breaking in" the lunch line and scurrying through the halls to reach classes before the tardy bell.

The mighty upper classmen, who had snubbed them in the beginning, soon started to smile at their enthusiasm when they captured the sportsmanship banner at the first pep rally.

Always eager to participate in whatever activity the school was engaged, they added much to the fun and school spirit at B. H. S. Thus, the youngest but largest class made their contributions to the school. Their year was active and interesting, and at the end they were confident they could take on the responsibilities of the next four years.
